Temperance and Moral Reform

Prov. 23: 29–35; 20: 1; 23: 20; 31: 4, 5. Isa. 5: 11, 22, 23. Hab 2: 15; 2: 12. Isa. 10: 1, 2. Psa. 12: 8; 94: 20. Hab. 2: 9–11. Matt. 27: 6. Gen. 4: 10; 42: 21.

Who hath woe? who hath sorrow? who hath contentions? who hath babbling? who hath wounds without cause? who hath redness of eyes?

They that tarry long at the wine;
They that go to seek mixed wine.

Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright.

At the last it biteth like a serpent,
And stingeth like an adder.
Thine eyes shall behold strange women,
And thine heart shall utter perverse things.

Yea, thou shalt be as he that lieth down in the midst of the sea, or as he that lieth upon the top of a mast.

They have stricken me, shalt thou say, and I was not sick;
They have beaten me, and I felt it not:
When shall I awake? I will seek it yet again.

Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging: and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.

Be not among winebibbers; among riotous eaters of flesh:

It is not for kings, O Lemuel, it is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes strong drink:

Lest they drink, and forget the law, and pervert the judgment of any of the afflicted.

Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that continue until night, till wine inflame them.

Woe unto them that are mighty to drink wine, and men of strength to mingle strong drink:

Which justify the wicked for reward, and take away the righteousness of the righteous from him!

Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that puttest thy bottle to him, and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest look on their nakedness!

Woe unto him that buildeth a town with blood, and establisheth a city by iniquity.

Woe unto them that decree unrighteous decrees, and that grievousness which they have prescribed;

To turn aside the needy from judgment, and to take away the right from the poor of my people, that widows may be their prey, and that they may rob the fatherless!

The wicked walk on every side, when the vilest men are exalted.

Shall the throne of iniquity have fellowship with thee, which frameth mischief by a law?

Woe to him that coveteth an evil covetousness to his house, that he may set his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the power of evil?

Thou hast consulted shame to thy house by cutting off many people, and hast sinned against thy soul.

For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber shall answer it.

It is not lawful for to put them into the treasury, because it is the price of blood.

And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.

And they said one to another, We are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we saw the anguish of his soul, when he besought us, and we would not hear; therefore is this distress come upon us.

John Nelson Clark Coggin

A careful observer of social and religious conditions has said, "One great want of the times is a commanding ministry—a ministry of a piety at once sober and earnest and of the mightiest moral power. Give us these men, 'full of faith and of the Holy Ghost,' who will proclaim old truth with new energy. Men of sound speech, who will preach the truth as it is in Jesus, who will preach it apostle-wise, that is, 'first of all,' the source of all morals and the inspiration of all charity—the sanctifier of every relationship and the sweetener of every toil. Give us these men—men of zeal untiring, whose hearts of constancy quail not, although dull men sneer, and timid men blush, proud men scorn, cautious men deprecate and wicked men revile."

A man of the M. E. Connection who seeks to render just this sort of service is Rev. John Nelson Clark Coggin, A. B., D. D., of Washington, D. C. Dr. Coggin is a native of Mississippi, having been born at Abbeville in Lafayette Co., on May 8, 1870. His father, Daniel Coggin, an humble farmer, was the son of Vinie Coggin. The mother of our subject was, before her marriage, Miss Martha Blakeley, daughter of Daniel Blakeley.

Dr. Coggin had his elementary education in the public schools and did his preparatory work at Rust University, Holly Springs, Miss. For his regular college work, which he did not take until after he had entered the ministry, he went to Clark University, Atlanta, and won his A. B. degree in 1899. Prior to this he had pursued the theological course at Gammon Theological Seminary from which he has the B. D. degree. His course was a bit irregular and carried on in the face of difficulties, but the main thing with the young preacher was the adequate equipment of himself for the serious work of life.

Young Coggin was converted at the tender age of ten and joined the Providence Methodist Church. No sooner had he given his heart to God and come into the kingdom, than he realized that his work in life must be that of preaching the Gospel. To his sainted mother, he gratefully gives credit for the inspiration which started him on the right way and held him steady during the years of his youth. When about sixteen years of age he was licensed to exhort by a white presiding elder at Spring Hill, Miss. He joined the conference at Holly Springs, Miss., in 1898 under Bishop Andrews, and was assigned to the Holly Springs Circuit. He was successful from the beginning and served that circuit for four years, during which time a new house of worship was erected at Calvin's. He was then transferred to Atlanta, which gave him the much coveted opportunity to complete his education. He was appointed to a mission on Bellwood Ave., where he preached for five years. This work developed under his ministry and is now St. Luke's M. E. Church, a self-supporting charge. From that work he went to the Fort Street Church, Atlanta. Here too, the church property was improved and the membership greatly strengthened in numbers and in power. His next appointment was the Grantville Circuit. He was called from this field after a little more than two years to become Field Secretary of the Young People's Christian and Educational Congress. This was inter-denominational work and took him to every part of the country. When, after a little more than a year in this work, failing health made it necessary for him to give up field work, he resigned and went back into the pastorate. He was sent to Grace M. E. Church at Covington, Ga., which he served continuously for eight years. The church experienced its greatest period of prosperity under his ministry. Both the church and the parsonage were greatly improved and Dr. Coggin came soon to be recognized by both races as a safe leader among his people. He had the cordial support and co-operation of the leading white business and professional men of the city. In 1913 he was appointed first Secretary of the Colored Department of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the M. E. Church. His work is educational, inspirational and evangelistic. He is the first colored man designated by his church to do reform work among the colored people, and also the first regularly appointed colored evangelist of the church. In connection with his work he has organized the Inter-Collegiate Prohibition and Public Morals League, which is being organized in the Negro Colleges of America.

On Jan. 30, 1893, Dr. Coggin was happily married to Miss Jessie Gray Hill of Holly Springs, Miss. Mrs. Coggin was educated at Holly Springs, and takes an active interest in the work of her husband.

While residing at Covington, Ga., Dr. Coggin founded the Independent Order of Woodmen. That was July 4, 1908. His removal from Georgia to Washington, made necessary by the character of his work, together with a re-adjustment of rates, practically suspended the active operations of the order. Recently the order has been incorporated and licensed to do business in the District of Columbia with the promise of a bright future. So it will be seen that Dr. Coggin is a pioneer in more fields than one. His work has given him an unusual opportunity to study conditions and he is of the opinion that what the Negro most needs at this time is, first, soul-stirring evangelism among the religious leaders of the race, and second, on the part of the laity, what might be called a practical workable religion which concerns itself less about heaven and hell and more about this present life and how to make it worthy.

In 1907 Rust University conferred on Dr. Coggin the degree of Doctor of Divinity in recognition of his work and attainments.

If the life and work of Dr. Coggin teaches anything it teaches that poverty and obscurity are no bar to prosperity and success if a man's heart is right and he is not afraid to work.

2 The Lord spoke to Gabriel:
Go look behind the altar,
Take down the silver trumpet,
Blow your trumpet, Gabriel,
Lord, how loud shall I blow it?
Blow it right calm and easy,
Do not alarm My people,
Tell them to come to judgment;
Gabriel, blow your trumpet,
Lord, how loud shall I blow it?
Loud as seven peals of thunder
Wake the sleeping nations.

3 Then you'll see poor sinners rising;
Then you'll see the world on fire;
Then you'll see the moon a-bleeding,
Then you'll see the stars falling,
Then you'll see the elements melting,
Then you'll see the forked lightning,
Then you'll hear the rumbling thunder;
Then the earth shall reel and totter,
Then you'll see the Christian rising;
Then you'll see the righteous marching,
See them marching home to heaven.
Then you'll see my Jesus coming
With all His holy angels,
Take the righteous home to heaven,
There they'll live with God forever.

* When the preacher has worked his auditors up to a high degree of excitement, he will often break off and extemporize some song, with his text as his basis, in which the audience joins, and then at the end of it will go on "exhorting" again. This song, which is one of the most beautiful of our collection, was composed in this way in Robertson County, Tennessee. It seemed at first crude and unavailable, but as it was sung over and over again gradually reached its present musical form.

No. 150. Go Down, Moses.

3 No more shall they in bondage toil,
Let them come out with Egypt's spoil.

4 When Israel out of Egypt came,
And left the proud oppressive land.

5 O, 'twas a dark and dismal night,
When Moses led the Israelites.

6 'Twas good old Moses and Aaron, too,
'Twas they that led the armies through.

7 The Lord told Moses what to do,
To lead the children of Israel through.

8 O come along Moses, you'll not get lost,
Stretch out your rod and come across.

9 As Israel stood by the water side,
At the command of God it did divide.

10 When they had reached the other shore,
They sang the song of triumph o'er.

11 Pharaoh said he would go across,
But Pharaoh and his host were lost.

12 O Moses the cloud shall clear the way,
A fire by night, a shade by day.

13 You'll not get lost in the wilderness,
With a lighted candle in your breast.

14 Jordan shall stand up like a wall,
And the walls of Jericho shall fall.

15 Your foes shall not before you stand,
And you'll possess fair Canaan's land.

16 'Twas just about in harvest-time,
When Joshua led his host divine.

17 O let us all from bondage flee,
And let us all in Christ be free.

18 We need not always weep and moan,
And wear these slavery chains forlorn.

The motto's new and old,
Salvation and Repentance
Are burnished there in gold.

5 She's nearing now the station,
O, sinner, don't be vain,
But come and get your ticket,
And be ready for the train.

6 The fare is cheap and all can go,
The rich and poor are there,
No second-class on board the train,
No difference in the fare.

7 There's Moses, Noah and Abraham,
And all the prophets, too,
Our friends in Christ are all on board,
O, what a heavenly crew.

8 We soon shall reach the station,
O, how we then shall sing,
With all the heavenly army,
We'll make the welkin ring.

9 We'll shout o'er all our sorrows,
And sing forever more,
With Christ and all His army,
On that celestial shore.
